(Technical Journals)

(A Monthly Current Awareness Service from Technical Journals)

Vol. 10 No. 09, September, 2026

The Central Library, IBM, Nagpur is subscribing the technical journals and also receiving them on complimentary basis on various subjects like Geology, Mining, Mineral Economics etc. These Technical Journals make up an important collection of latest scientific information. The library is rendering Reference Service to its users from these technical Journals (Article Indexing is one of them). Central Library, IBM provides Current Content Service from these technical journals in the name of "GEM" since 2006 on half yearly basis in print form. To expand this service to the IBM Offices all over India i.e. H.Q., Zonal & Regional Offices and to take a call of time, the Controller General, IBM desired to make this service online on monthly basis. The library staff made efforts to make it successful. This is the 9th issue of Volume-10 for this service named "तकनीकी पत्रिका विषय – सूची" (Current Content- A Monthly Current Awareness Service from Technical Journals) Vol. 10 No.09, September, 2026.

It will be highly appreciated if the valuable feedback is reciprocated. If some article as per content list is found to be of use by the reader the same may be requested and the library will send the scanned copy of the article to the interested reader.

Cover

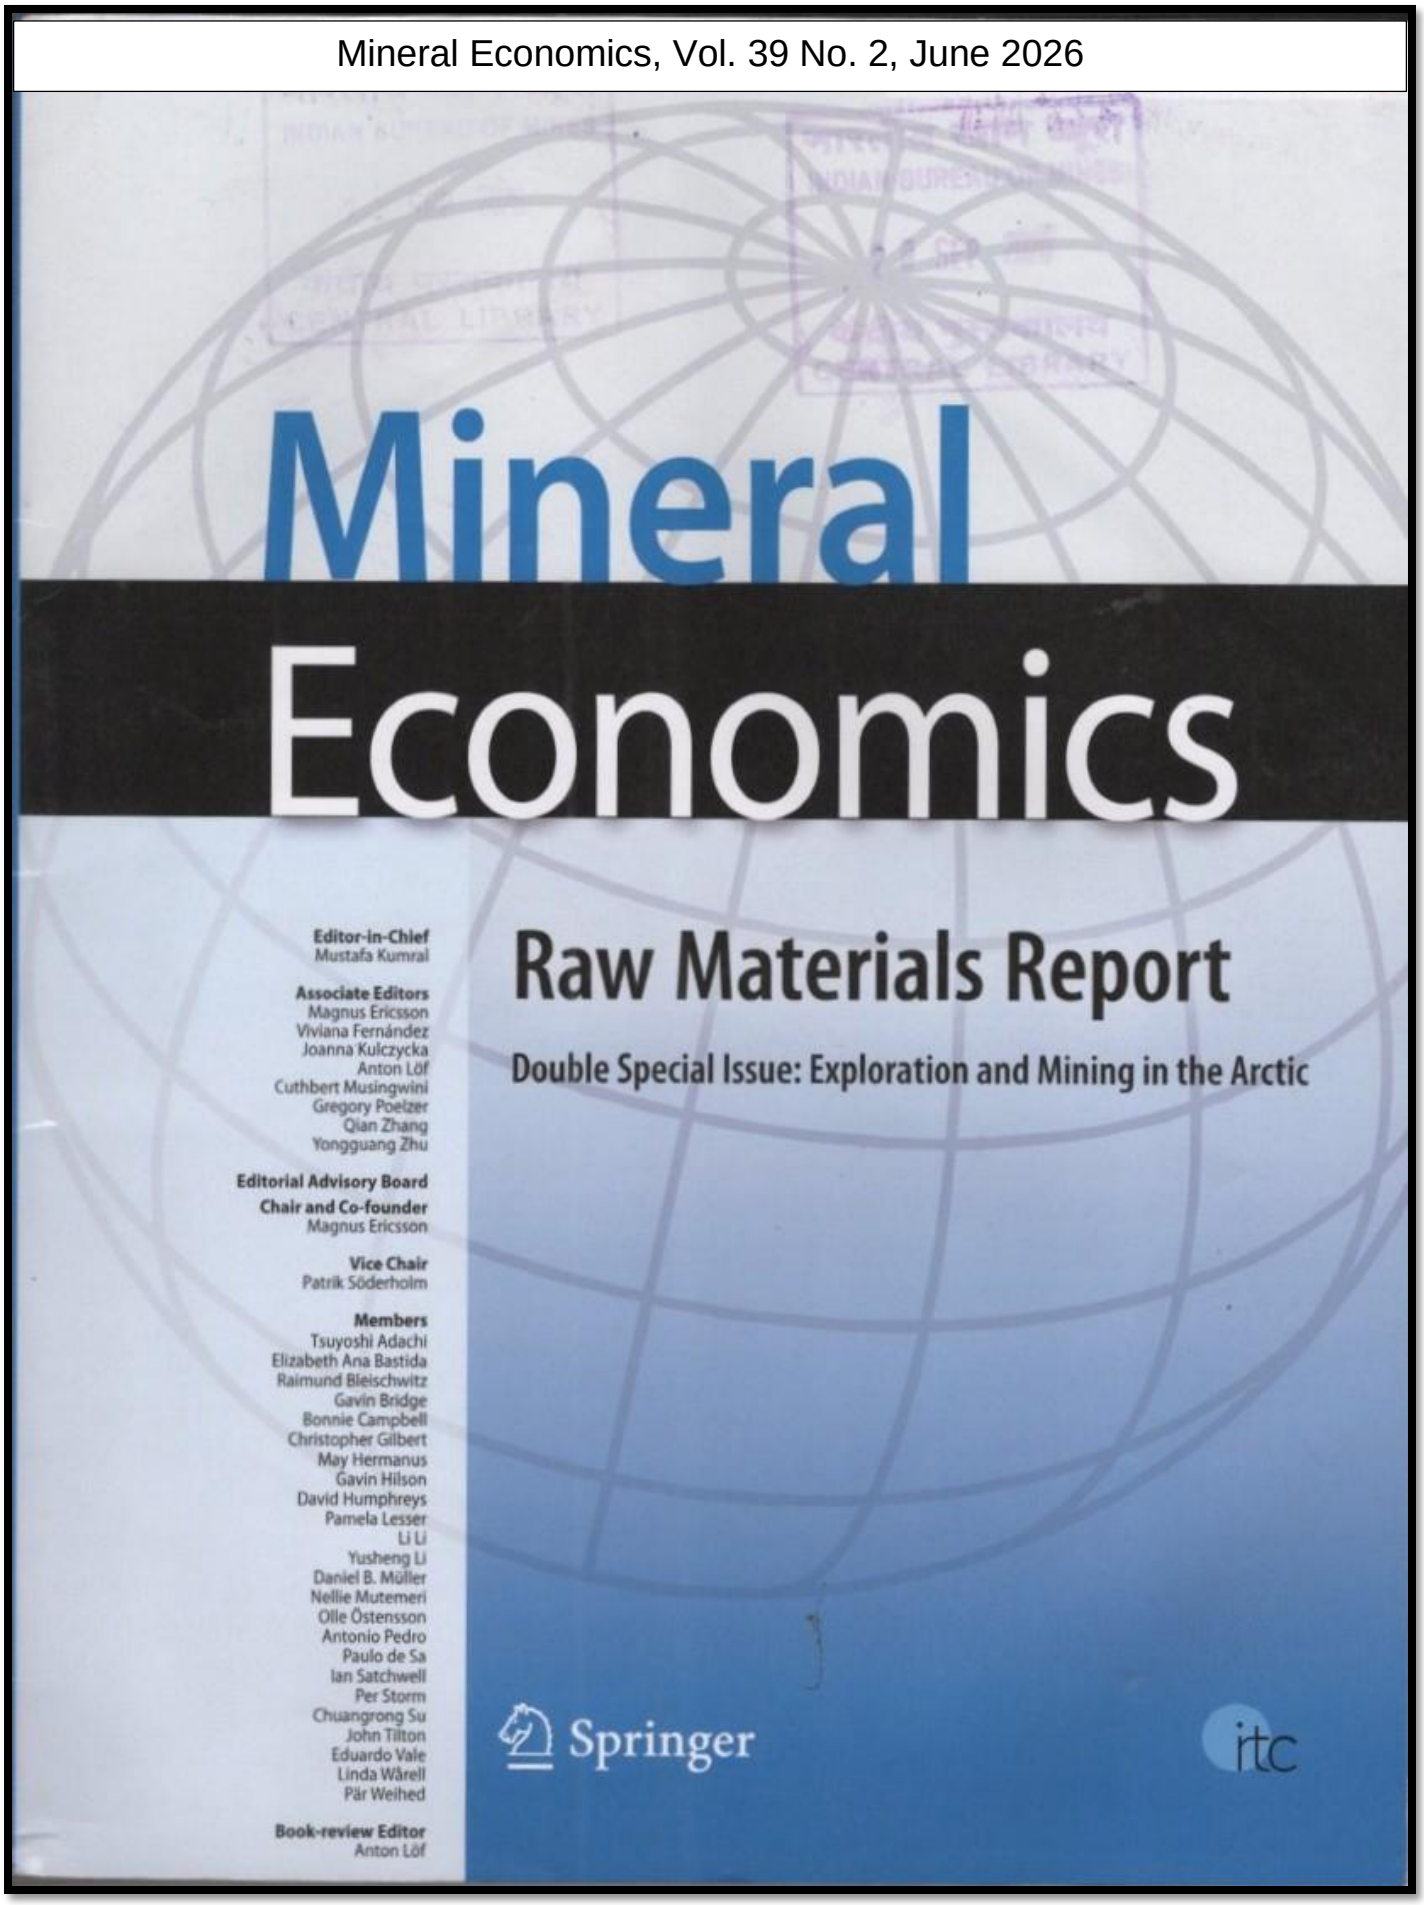

Collage of images from figures of the paper by Das, P. and Mamtani, M.A. (this volume, pp. 1294-1299). The images depict the application of anisotropy of magnetic susceptibility (AMS) in identifying the kinematic reference frame in rocks collected from a field exposure of sheared granite (Bangriposi region, India). Kinematic analysis in the leucocratic band (SEM-EBSD) and melanocratic band (petrography) establishes the sense of shear to be top-towards-NE, which was not possible to decipher exclusively from fieldwork.

Mineral Economics / Raw Materials Report

Springer

Aims & Scope

Mineral Economics – Raw Materials Report is an international, multidisciplinary journal focused on economics and policy issues in the minerals, metals and mining industries. The journal exists to improve the understanding of economic, social, environmental and political implications of natural resources. The main focus is on non-fuel minerals, metals and the mining industry, and its role in society.

Mineral Economics is widening its scope and particularly invites papers on:

- Socio-economic aspects of mining, e.g. social license to operate, indigenous peoples, theory of change
- Materials for the Green transition, e.g. battery metals, ICT elements, policies to secure supply of these elements
- Minerals in the periphery, e.g. the Arctic, deep-seabed and space

Mineral Economics serves as a platform for academics, industry practitioners, decision makers and other experts who want to share perspectives and knowledge about natural resources.
A wide range of topics have traditionally been covered including, among others: mineral market analysis, exploration and development, resource availability, market development, price formation, international trade, environmental policy, sustainability issues, competition issues.
Mineral Economics is a joint project of Luleå University of Technology and Råvarugruppen Ekonomisk Förening, the organization which founded the journal Raw Materials Report in 1981.

- International coverage of non-fuel minerals, metals and the mining industry, and its role in society
- One of the leading journals in field of mineral policy and economics
- Run in cooperation between Råvarugruppen and Luleå University of Technology, one of the leading mining universities in Europe
- Interdisciplinary scope, focusing on the economic, social, environmental and political implications of natural resources
- Platform for academics, industry practitioners and decision makers in government

The aim of this international peer-reviewed journal of the Society for Mining, Metallurgy & Exploration (SME) is to provide a broad-based forum for the exchange of real-world and theoretical knowledge from academia, government and industry that is pertinent to mining, mineral/metallurgical processing, exploration/geology and other fields served by the Society.

Mining, Metallurgy & Exploration (MME) publishes original research papers, in-depth special review articles, reviews of state-of-the-art and innovative technologies and industry methodologies, communications of work of topical and emerging interest, and other works that enhance understanding on both the fundamental and practical levels.

Maximize the exposure for your research work, technologies or findings by submitting a paper to MME! Benefits include:

- No charge for publication.
- Online First publication on SpringerLink in 16-21 days of acceptance.
- No restrictions on number of pages or figures.
- Hybrid model with Open Access option available.
- Free electronic access by all SME members.
- Invited extended abstracts and selected abstracts published in SME's Mining Engineering magazine.
- Journal impact factor and coverage in Clarivate's Web of Science.
- Abstracted and indexed in Science Citation Index Expanded, Scopus, Ebsco, Proquest, Google Scholar and more.
